

Julius,

I have recently heard about your organizations possible decision to allow full frontal nudity and the f-word on the TV. I am extremely opposed to this idea and think it would be a horrible decision to follow through with it. Do you have kids? Most Americans have kids and I highly doubt that the parents of these children would want their young children seeing naked women on tv and using disgusting language.

Do you think that children should be exposed to that kind of garbage on TV? I have already been "on the fence" about canceling my cable altogether anyways cause TV shows are disgusting already. If you decide to allow this obscene material on regular TV than I will definitely be canceling my cable indefinitely. After you read this email, think about your children or your grandchildren or your close friends' families who would be affected by this.

Do the right thing (the moral thing) and do everything in your power to stop it. I have learned throughout my years of living right and living wrong, that God punishes those who do things that are against his moral code and this is definitely against his moral code. Think long and hard about this decision and its potential consequences to the public and to yourself.

Sincerely,

Tom Kohlman
